In general, the following students are not eligible for SNAP:

- Age 18-49
- Physically and mentally able to work
- Enrolled at least half time in an institution of higher learning

However, there are several exceptions. You may be eligible for SNAP if one or more of the following are true:

- Working an average of 20 hours per week (earning minimum wage)
- Having a physical or mental disability
- Participating in State or Federal Work Study
- Caring for a dependent child under age 6
- Receiving Family Employment Program (FEP) or Workforce Investment Act (WIA) funds
- Responsible for care of a dependent child from age 6 through 11, who does not have adequate child care
- The student is a single parent enrolled full-time who is responsible for the care of a dependent child under age 12

Tips for Living on a Food Budget

SHOP SMART

- Plan ahead. Make a list and stick to it.
- Don’t shop hungry; this will help you avoid impulse buys.
- Compare prices and buy in bulk when it makes sense. Checking the unit price makes this easy.
- Buy more whole foods (flour, produce, oil, grains), and less processed foods (chips, candy, pastries, microwave meals, cookies). Shopping the perimeter of the store will help.
- Buy generic brands.
- Buy frozen or canned veggies.
- Buy fruits and vegetables in season.

RETHINK PROTEIN

- Eat less meat—focus on inexpensive proteins such as legumes, beans, milk, nuts, and eggs.
- Buy meat in the large packages when on sale and freeze it.
- Buy inexpensive cuts of meat and slow cook it.

AT HOME

- Cook your own food as much as possible.
- Prepare extra meals when you have time; freeze for later.
- Add leftovers to new meals or eat leftovers for breakfast or lunch.
- Bring your lunch and snacks with you instead of going out to eat.
- Avoid processed foods and snacks. Make your own!
- Drink tap water. If you like filtered water, invest in a Brita water filter for the fridge. Try to avoid soda, juices, and sports drinks.
- Grow your own food.
